Yes, I understand, and you're right: THAT would be great!!

But, how can we do it? VirtueMart does not handle the product cost in the datamodel. And any customization around that does is just that, a customization. The tool cannot handle every single customization (because every modification made to the VirtueMart datamodel could be different from one installation to another).

What we can do is this: if you use another Joomla! extension for that purpose, or have modified the VM datamodel in some way, let us know. If we detect that VM installation are usually customized the same ways, we can provide profit reports for those customizations.

What do you think about it? And how do you handle the VM product cost in your database? Another extension, or a customized datamodel?

Regards.

I understand.

I don't have such a extension, and I'm not programmer. That was just and (non programmer) idea :-/ now I know it's much difficult than I thought

Thanks for your answer
