What do you exactly need?

I mean, Social Analytics is a reporting tool and it is designed as such: with a lateral bar, top buttons, a time-framework selection, a graph and detailed data in a table (and all that for more than 170 report types). I guess you don't want all that in your user profile; besides there would be no space.

What are you thinking about? If it's doable and useful for Social Analytics users, we could build a new JomSocial application for that purpose (it'd be an application integrated in future Social Analytics releases).

Hi

It would be very cool if you have your stats on each user, available for each individual user in their profile. Yes it would be great if there was an app for that.

User don't need the full comprehensive stats your offer only the stats that would be most useful to the user, useful stats on the who, what, where and how of...

My Activity: What I have done and when

My Friends: Who, how many, When

My wall: Who - what posted, When

My Albums: Who looked, How many, When

My Videos: Who looked, How many, How long, When.. like a lite version of TubeMogul.com

My Events: Who looked, How many seen, How many attending, When

Basically because sites like my are Artist Based it would be cool if users can see who, what, how their Profile and Media are doing.

Thx for you time... i've been looking for a while.

I totally agree. I would like to offer my Jomsocial users analytics at the user level. People want to know data about who is visiting them, especially if it is a small business. Thanks Kim

PS check out about.me for an example
